Have you ever had questions about the IEP process? About inclusion? About meaningful inclusion? Do you know how to collaborate with your child's school on inclusive practices and the IEP? Do you wonder how to advocate for inclusion for your child, and for all children?

Need a good starting point?
Need your questions answered?

Come join us for a workshop expertly presented by Stacy Gillett and Inclusion for All. You will learn about IDEA, IEPs, and how to partner with your child's school and work towards the very best environment for your child with a disability and all children.

Stacy Gillett is the Executive Director of The Arc of King County, an organization that promotes and protects the human and civil rights of people with intellectual and developmental disabilities. Stacy previously worked for five years for Governor Inslee as the Washington State Education Ombudsman, resolving complaints regarding the public education system. She is a special education teacher by training and has worked for the past 30 years educating and assisting families who have children with disabilities. Stacy is also a sibling and co-guardian for her adult sister with developmental disabilities.

Inclusion for All is a grassroots cross-disability advocacy and education network focused on meaningful, equitable inclusion in schools in Washington State.

If you want more for your child, you'll want to join us!
